Every month or so, I try and focus on a particular theme. This past month, the theme was discipleship and evangelism. My early seminary days at L.M.B.I.S. in Minden, Louisiana were some of the most awesome and formative years for my ministry and included some very formative lessons that continue to make an impact on me. One such lesson on discipleship and evangelism was in Bro Larry Hudson's evangelism class. He posed a question to the class one morning: If you received a call from someone wanting you to come talk to them about salvation what would you do? Every person in the room said they would jump at the opportunity and go. I will never forget his response. He said "Well, every one of you are right BUT every one of you are also wrong!" His response was, why not take along a younger Christian you are actively discipling and give them the opportunity to share their faith. This will in turn strengthen their faith and continue their Christian maturity and walk. I began seeking ways to do that very thing with our young adults and God did not disappoint!

A few weeks ago, I got a call from a friend who wanted me to come talk to their teen who had been asking a lot of questions. I asked if it would be ok to bring along one of my "boys" to give a different perspective since they are much close to her son's age. When I approached the boys about it, I asked if any of them would be interested in going with me and to my surprise, all 3 wanted to go! I did not want to overwhelm the young man so I had them pick a number 1-50 to see who was closest to go. We did talk to the boy and unfortunately no decisions were made and at times I had to step in and steer the conversation a little. In the end though, it was a great learning and growth experience. A few days after that, I got a random text from a young man wanting to know if it was OK if he came to our Sunday morning service! I said of course it would be and asked how he got my info. He then told me that he works with one of the boys and they talk about God all the time! I have to admit, my heart exploded with joy. I texted Cam and told him great job spreading the word and he was so excited. The boys all work at the same job putting up bounce houses so the work is seasonal, especially here in CO. Since the boys are all off on Sundays the other young man has to work. He text me every Sunday morning and tells me they only have a few more weekends left to work in the season and then he cant wait to start coming to church.

Two weeks ago, we also had the opportunity to spend the afternoon in fellowship with James Taylor and his family. We met with the Taylor family, a few people who have been coming to their Bible study and a few local pastors and their families. We enjoyed fresh hamburgers and steaks a friend of mine donated, fellowshiped for a few minutes, sang worship songs for about 45 minutes then had short testimony service about what God is doing in Colorado. Seeing as no one in our congregation is musically inclined, it was literally music to my soul to just sing and worship my Lord that evening. It was a great recharge for all of us!
