People ask me all the time what a typical day of ministry is like in Colorado. A recent trip home from seeing my son in California may explain what it looks like. Ministry is never quite as glamorous or clean as some people may think!

I had just got settled into my seat and others were still boarding. A woman looked down the aisle from me and asked me “Do you hate the San Francisco 49ers?” I told her I do not dislike them, as long as they beat the Dallas Cowboys! She looked at me and screamed H_ _ _ yeah, I like you! She then asked if the seat next to me was taken and she would buy me a drink. I told her the seat was not taken and I appreciate the gesture but I do not drink. She introduced herself as a crazy Russian San Francisco 49ers super fan. I introduced myself to her in Russian and asked what her name was.

She was totally surprised I could speak Russian and again said “I knew I liked you!” We talked football for quite a while until the flight attendant came by and asked what we wanted to drink. She again tried to order me a beer and a shot of whiskey but I politely declined. She asked why I didn’t drink, and I explained to her it was a personal conviction of mine based on the Word of God. She then asked if I was going to tell her she was going to hell for drinking. I politely told her no, drinking is not the reason you would go to hell, it is not having a personal relationship with Jesus Christ that would doom you to an eternity in hell. She looked at me very inquisitively and said “So let me get this straight, you believe I have to have sex with Jesus Christ to go to heaven?” .....No kidding, she really did ask that! I explained to her what I meant by that statement, and she was somewhat relieved!

After more talk about football and the NFL she asked me what I did for a living. I told her I was a church planter in the town of Mead about 25 miles north of Denver. She was then confused on how a church is planted. Once again I had to explain to her what that meant. She then said to me “Oh, so you are a consultant hired to help the ministers start the church?” I told her no, I AM the minister starting the church. She then screams loudly “Holy “expletive” you are a minister?” You sure don’t look like one! I asked her, what do you think a minister looks like and she said definitely not you! I assured her I was. She then asked several people sitting near us if they think I look like a minister. When we started our approach into Denver she told me she would never have thought she would meet a cool minister. I told her I was going to take that as a compliment. She insisted we get a picture together once we landed so she could tell her friends she actually met a cool minister who didn’t try to shove religion down her throat or ask for money!

She told me she lived south of Denver and would like my information. I gave her my facebook and Instagram and told her if she was ever up north, I would love for her to come to a service. She said she actually might do that someday but the only problem is it would not be during football season since football games are on Sundays

THAT is what every day ministry looks like in Colorado!
