March Madness

The term March madness has truly lived up to its reputation this year. March covered the physical, spiritual and emotional highs and lows all in one month.

The month started out with another out-of-town volleyball tournament in New Orleans during St. Patrick's day weekend. We continued our new tradition of breakfast and devotion before the tournament, this time at café Dumond. We were able to meet outside in the patio area and had several people sitting around us watching and listening intently. I was fully expecting a confrontation but luckily nothing happened, and several people heard the Gospel. I was also able to lay the ground work for this coming Easter services at Pathway.

A few days after returning home, I received a call that a lifelong friend of mine's father, Royce Chapman, had passed away. Royce was a second father to me growing and also a great family friend to my parents. I was asked to give the message at the funeral which was a great honor for me. During my time there it was peak blooming season for every plant, shrub, and tree I am allergic too. I had planned to stay a week and visit a few churches but was so sick I returned home early. I was sick for almost 2 weeks with stuffy nose, sore throat and coughing.

I had planned to start the men's Bible study this month but due to me being sick it has been postponed.

Please pray for our Easter services next month. We are planning on reaching out to all our past contacts and having a fun, spirit filled Sunday!
